Tree Up!

Celebrate, commemorate or advocate — with trees! Tree Ups are a fun way for organizations to raise awareness or build community while improving Baltimore’s quality of life. Cheer on the Ravens, honor loved ones, celebrate local art, or demonstrate corporate social responsibility by planting trees in service to the community.

Each month during the planting season, TreeBaltimore organizes a themed Tree Up and invites organizations across the city to participate. Bring your volunteers to a planned Tree Up, or coordinate with us to host one in your neighborhood, at your school, or through your church. We will supply the trees, tools, and planting expertise.

How a Tree Up Can Help You

Tree Ups are a great way to engage your organization’s members around a fun social activity. Whether you are looking to do something new to give back to the community, would like to add a new angle to an existing event, or want to draw more members or visitors, Tree Ups can help you meet your organizational goals. Meanwhile, you will also be helping Baltimore grow more trees to clean our air and water and provide shade and beauty. Property owners may be eligible to receive stormwater credits through a program with the Department of Public Works.

Why Trees?

Think of a neighborhood filled with trees. Chances are that image conjures up good feelings — of peacefulness, safety, and well-being. That’s because each and every tree in Baltimore is a Giving Tree — cleaning our air and water, providing shade in the summer and protection from chill winds in the winter, and filling our world with beauty and tranquility. And each and every Baltimore neighborhood deserves to enjoy the benefits of properly planted, well-maintained trees. That’s where TreeBaltimore’s Tree Ups come in.

Our Goal...

Recognizing the critical benefits provided by trees, the City of Baltimore has pledged to double the urban tree canopy by 2037. That’s an ambitious goal. To achieve success, residents of Baltimore must work together to plant 25,000 trees a year for the next two decades.
